

The 4th International Forum on Language, Brain and Cognition:

Cognition, Brain, and Typology: Toward a Synthesis

■ Date: 9.00am-7.00pm, 12-13 (Sunday-Monday) September 2004

■ Venue: Kawauchi-kita Campus Multi-media Hall, Tohoku University
Sendai, Japan

Organized and sponsored by:

The Tohoku University 21st Century COE Program in Humanities

Admission Free; Contact the secretariat below.

Plenary Talks:

Melissa Bowerman

(Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics, The Netherlands)

Event categorization in language and cognition:
The case of "Cutting and Breaking"

William Croft

(Department of Linguistics, University of Manchester, UK)

Multidimensional scaling for typological analysis and its implications for typology, cognition and the brain

Invited Presentations:

Asifa Majid

(Max Planck Institute for Psycholinguistics, The Netherlands)

The human body in cognition, brain, and typology

Kichun Nam

(Korea University and Brain Science Research Center, KAIST, Korea)

Lexical and sublexical representation in visual word recognition

Heiko Narrog

(The COE Program in Humanities, Tohoku University, Japan)

Getting on the modality ladder:
Participant-internal possibility as a threshold to modality

Kwango Yi

(Department of Psychology, Youngnam University, Korea)

Morphological representation and processing of Sino-Korean words

6 Other Presentation Sessions by the COE Program Research Groups:

Visit our website for the detailed Program: <http://www.lbc21.jp>

Send inquiries to:

Secretariat, The Tohoku University 21st Century COE Program in Humanities

Tohoku University, Sendai 980-8576 Japan

Tel. +81-22-217-7550, Fax. +81-22-217-7850, E-mail: office@lbc21.jp,

<http://www.lbc21.jp>